Dear Mr. Laire,

My best thank for the last books, you have been kind enough to send me.
I am sorry to say, that the article on Tchaikowsky is still unborn because of my teeth, which has been very bad the last time. By this reason I have also been obliged to decide, during my stay in London not at all to partake in social life and therefore I have already been compelled to refuse several invitations.
So you see that I shall unfortunately be prevented

Soon making use of yours and Mrs. Lanes amability.

My heartiest welcome to a first-class musical monthly magazine in your Country!

With kind regards

Yours sincerely

Edward Grieg
